Strategy Commentary

During the June 2013 quarter, the Strategy generated a return of 1.1% against the benchmark UBS Developed Infrastructure and Utilities Net Total Return Index (Hedged to AUD) return of 0.4%.

The Strategy's performance was the result of two opposing strong trends. Very good results were achieved from the Strategy's toll road and airport exposures, up 9.5% and 6.5% respectively for the quarter. Offsetting these results was an approximate 13% negative return from the Strategy's two satellite communications companies, in our view, a market reaction to a combination of a rise in prevailing interest rates and a modest reduction in guidance by one of those companies. The rise in prevailing interest rates also led to a pull back in the share prices of US utilities in the Strategy.

For those stocks included in the benchmark index but excluded from Magellan's universe of investable infrastructure stocks, the June quarter saw a strong recovery in the share prices of stocks that had been very poor performers in recent years. Japanese stocks were up over 23% on average while the rail sector was up by more than 6% during the period.

Performance is compared to the UBS Developed Infrastructure & Utilities Net Total Return Index (Hedged to AUD) which is a market capitalisation weighted index that is designed to measure the equity performance of listed Infrastructure and Utility stocks. Index results assume the reinvestment of all distributions of capital gain and net investment income using a tax rate applicable to non-resident institutional investors who do not benefit from double taxation treaties. The index is hedged to Australian dollars.

GIPS® DISCLOSURE

* Magellan claims compliance with the Global Investment Performance Standards (GIPS®).

For the purpose of complying with GIPS, the Firm is defined as all discretionary portfolios managed by Magellan.

The Select Infrastructure composite is a global strategy investing in strictly defined or "pure" infrastructure companies (typically 80-120). The composite is hedged to Australian dollars with Forward contracts.

To achieve investment objectives, the composite may also use derivative financial instruments including, but not limited to, options, swaps, futures and forwards. Derivatives are subject to the risk of changes in the market price of the underlying securities instruments, and the risk of the loss due to changes in interest rates. The use of certain derivatives may have a leveraging effect, which may increase the volatility of the composite and may reduce its returns.

^ The representative portfolio is an account in the composite that closely reflects the portfolio management style of the strategy. Performance is not a consideration in the selection of the representative portfolio. The characteristics of the representative portfolio may differ from those of the composite and of the other accounts in the composite. Information regarding the representative portfolio and the other accounts in the composite is available upon request.

Industry and Geographical Exposures are calculated on a look through basis based on underlying revenue exposure of individual companies held within the portfolio.
